

NEW EP "LOOKING GLASS"

WASHINGTON, DC – October 22, 2025 – Rising R&B/Pop artist Ainae releases her debut EP Looking Glass on all major streaming platforms today. After a three-month exclusive release on EVEN, the five-track project showcases her "Cinematic Soul" sound, soulful vocals, modern production, and emotionally resonant storytelling. The EP unfolds through five emotional landscapes: the infatuation of "I'm Caught Up," the endless nights of "Partay," sultry weekend escapes in "Weekend Lover" (feat. Saint Ciré), the focused devotion of "Concentration," and the freedom to move forward in "Overboard."

"What if love felt like the movies?" Ainae reflects. "Volume I: Looking Glass captures that fantasy the version of romance and life I dreamed about before reality set in."

"What if love felt like the movies?"

The standout single "I'm Caught Up" is a spontaneous celebration of infatuation that captures the rush of a crush before love gets complicated.

Ainae is a DC-based R&B/Pop artist with Ethiopian, Black American, and Caribbean roots whose journey spans NBC's The Voice (Team Kelly), SXSW 2025, Broccoli City Festival, sold-out Union Stage performances, and opening slots for Kyle Dion and James Vickery. She'll perform at Howard University's Homecoming. A graduate of The Lillehammer Institute of Music Production and Industries (Norway), Ainae creates music that bridges continents and cultures. Looking Glass is available now on all major streaming platforms.
